Marat and Amy Kashenov serving in Kazakhstan

Amy (Hartwig) Kashenov has been a missionary in Almaty, Kazakhstan since 1994. She serves as director of rural evangelization, working primarily with Kazakh villagers in their native language. She coordinates translation of Christian literature, songs and youth materials into the Kazakh language, and works with small group leaders of Bible study/worship groups in various villages. Amy also offers evangelism and leadership seminars in the Kazakh language, to help new believers grow in their faith, as well as learn to share the Good News they've heard with their Muslim family members and friends.

Amy is married to Marat, who serves as president of the Lutheran Church of Christ the Savior, a congregation of the local Lutheran Synod, ELC (Evangelical Lutheran Center), organizing various activities with that congregation. Amy and Marat have a son, Amanzhol, who loves traveling to the villages with his mother, and who is an excellent bridge to the Kazakh culture.

Amy has been a missionary with the LCMS since 1992, originally serving in St. Petersburg, Russia. Born in British Columbia, Canada, she grew up in South Dakota. She graduated from St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., with a double-major in Russian language and Russian and Soviet Studies.

The Kashenov family asks you to pray for the ministry among the Kazakhs, that they may not only hear the Good News in their own language, but also gladly share it with their Kazakh neighbors. Pray also that God would raise up Kazakh male leaders, who are willing to serve the Lord openly, becoming deacons for Kazakh congregations. Pray too for the strengthening and growth of the Bible study/worship groups, and that the small group leaders may have wisdom, and compassion for the lost.

• Involvement Idea: Through the Together In Mission program (TIM), congregations and individuals can adopt and support missionaries. Call 800-433-3954 for more information.
